Untiring Efforts of Field Hospital No. 12 at Soissons Saved Many Lives

LETTER RELATES STORY

Staff Worked Without Rest or Help for Fifty-two Hours

How Field Hospital No. 12, of the First Division, resisted the foe...

From July 18 to 25 2665 cases from the field were received and 528 from another field hospital...

Thrilling Story Follows

Sergeant Bollinger is a brother of Mrs. J. H. Dore, 1819 South Fifth-street. Many Philadelphians are with him in the unit.

A field hospital is a mobile unit which functions as the battle front as possible, although at the battle of Soissons we functioned some distance behind the lines...

Staff of But Sixty-two

Our personnel consisted of eighty-three men and nine officers, Major William L. Edmundson being in command. The battle started on the morning of the July 18, and the first patients began arriving at 6 a. m. in the evening...

Help Finally Arrives

The third day help arrived in the shape of operating teams from the navy and base hospital No. 46, also nearly all the personnel of Field Hospital Company No. 2 and a detachment of engineers...

ARDMORE'S PROPOSED HALL OF HONOR

The war-service remembrance committee of Ardmore, Pa., proposes to erect a hall of honor as a tribute to the men and women of the community who served in the world war.

Supplies began to run short but due entirely to untiring efforts of Major Edmundson, the much needed supplies arrived from Paris. With a double personnel and ample supplies, the situation was well under control for the remainder of our stay, which lasted until July 27, 1918, our division being relieved on the 25th.

2665 Cases From Field

From the July 18 to 25 there were 2665 admitted direct from the field 528 from Field Hospital Company No. 2, 3108 redressed and evacuated without being picked up on our records. About 2000 cases were operated upon of which 379 were major operations. One hundred and twenty-seven died and are buried at Pierrefonds, a tribute to American gallantry and devotion to democracy.

The Twelfth Division of Scottish Highlanders took over the line held by the First Division, July 23, 1918. Operations slackened to such an extent that on the 23rd, our attached doctors, nurses and men had to leave us forever. We continued in operation for two days more for the Scotch for which we were cited by the commanding general of the North British Division. We were finally relieved by a Scotch unit and departed on July 27. It is a week that none who were there will ever forget, especially those who labored so untiringly, ministering to the brave men who fell around Soissons. Our last night after leaving the town was the grim old castle fading in the distance. We know it is the center of more pleasant things and the cannon, ammunition trains and ambulances are, or soon will be replaced by the touring cars of pleasure seekers, and the groans and suffering of the wounded by merry laughter and life once more safe for democracy.

COMMENDED FOR SHOOTING

Magistrate Absolves Man Who Wounded Alleged Assassin

Raymond Shive, twenty-four years old, a water tender in the navy, of 2908 North Market street, was acquitted of all blame in connection with the shooting of Walter Kaufman on March 12 and was complimented for his action by Magistrate Wrightley this morning.

Kaufman is fifteen years old and lives at 3526 North Marshall street. He was shot after Shive was aroused from his sleep and saw a boy attack Dorothy Boyd, 3526 North Marshall street, and drove her to the pavement. Shive opened his bedroom window and fired.

Kaufman was found at Sixth street and Allegheny avenue. At first he said he had been struck by an automobile and was taken to his home. Later he was removed to the Samaritan Hospital, where he was found to be suffering from a bullet wound. He told a story of having been shot by a man who attempted to hold him up. Later, the police say, he admitted having attacked the Boyd girl.

If more men acted like you, we would have less hold-ups," Magistrate Wrightley told Shive. Kaufman has been discharged from the hospital and will be given a hearing at the House of Detention today.

Bolshevik "Agents" Pay Fines

Two men accused of distributing Bolshevik literature were released today on payment of fines of $10 each and order of conduct. The defendants were Harry Thomas and Floyd Tyson, both of Wissinickon. They were arrested March 13 at Main and Cotton streets, Manayunk.

Bala-Cynwyd Red Cross to Go On

Members of the Bala-Cynwyd branch of the Red Cross, following the news that their services will still be needed in making garments for overseas use, will turn a previously planned "demobilization party" for tomorrow evening into a meeting for boosting future activities.

ARDMORE PLANS HALL OF HONOR

Memorial Tribute to Men and Women Who Served in War

ON AMBITIOUS SCROLL

Building to Be Not Only Architecturally Beautiful, but Also Useful

The memorial hall of honor which Ardmore hopes to erect as a tribute to the men and women of its community who have served in the great war is planned on a most ambitious and interesting scheme.

On the first floor will be an auditorium which will provide a place for concerts, patriotic gatherings, lectures and meetings of all kinds. At each end there will be a section for the use of army and navy organizations, respectively, to be used as a clubroom for veterans of the war.

There is to be a trophy hall on the second floor for the housing of memorabilia—relics, historical paintings, etc. To the right of this is a room for Chamber of Commerce meetings and township organizations is planned. On the left the Red Cross, Emergency Aid and similar activities may be sheltered.

The largest room on the ground floor is intended for a drill hall, flower show, automobile exhibits, etc., as well as for dancing.

A handsome foyer raised above the level of the drill hall can be used as a banquet hall, served from a kitchenette. To the right will be a reception room for the use of the visiting delegations. The clubroom on the left is set aside for the different organizations using the building, and can be equipped with billiard tables and other club features.

The Hall of Honor, which is to be built of yellow limestone, is to be placed on grounds which comprise four acres. There will be a playground, with locker and dressing rooms, which will be banked on four sides, so that it can be flooded for skating. Beyond is located a grandstand and outdoor swimming pool.

Shaded walks with branches and trees, each in honor of one fallen hero from the community, are dedicated to the army and navy, respectively.

John E. Clarke, chairman of the war service remembrance committee of Ardmore, said today: "I trust the citizens of Ardmore will respond enthusiastically to the plan to erect so magnificent a memorial building in our midst. While the committee has not yet accepted the same, I am personally greatly interested in the plan, which is conceived on a magnificent and at the same time highly useful scheme, so as to redound overlastingly to the honor of Ardmore and the benefit of its citizens."

The architects of the Hall of Honor are Dreher, Churchman, Paul and Ford, of this city.

INJURY FOLLOWS RESCUE

Child Carried From Fire Has Foot Crushed by Trolley

Jacob Gordon, three years old, 932 South Fourth street, is at Mt. Sinai Hospital with a crushed foot which may have to be amputated. He was run over yesterday by a Fourth street trolley car as he was playing opposite his home.

Last Wednesday fire damaged the Gordon home and the child was trapped on the second floor by the flames. He was rescued by Patrolmen Baer and Hirschman, of the Seventh and Carpenter streets station, who were forced to jump from a second-story window.

Edward Scanlon, of Arizona street, motorman of the car which struck the child, was arrested by Patrolman Phillips. Magistrate Coward, at the Seventh and Carpenter streets station, released him for a further hearing under $500 bail.

BUYING LOAN IS LIKE INSURING ONE'S PAY

Purchases Aid National Credit Which, in Turn, Helps Business, Says Folwell

By NATHAN T. FOLWELL. Former President Manufacturers' Club. Composing one of the greatest industrial communities in the United States, Philadelphians hold a relation toward the Victory Liberty Loan of peculiar responsibility—to the nation and to themselves.

As truly and as directly as we Philadelphians are earning our living by our own exertions, so do we depend for the opportunity to earn it on the national credit. Far too many of us find the meaning of these words, "the national credit," as nebulous as the nebular hypothesis. All we know is the pay envelope.

But the national credit rests largely on business prosperity, and that in turn rests on business credit, which, on the whole, is founded on the money available for banking accommodation.

Without it in ample measure for loans to business of all kinds—retail, wholesale and industrial—business is hamstrung. It can no more go on than a horse whose leg muscle has been severed.

All enterprises now confront conditions demanding every support that can be legitimately brought to bear. That which is imperatively required is accommodation funds to the full extent of the banks' resources.

If the workers of this great industrial community will employ the intelligence inspired by their own self-interest; if they will invest in the safe and very profitable Victory Liberty Loan the savings from their pay envelopes, they will make it needless for the banks to tie up in securities the money so urgently needed for accommodating the very enterprises that make the pay envelope possible. Buying the loan is not merely investment. It is not only patriotism. It is insurance for the pay envelope, and endowment insurance at that.

The banks cannot take the loan without tying up their funds. They cannot tie up their funds without denying to business the credits on which business operates. And business cannot earn profits or produce pay envelopes unless it has credit on which to operate.

The Victory Liberty Loan is the pay envelope's indispensable insurance. The pay envelope cannot afford to rely on others to protect it now. It must protect itself by buying the loan.

HELEN P. TAFT TO PRESIDE AT MEETING TO URGE LEAGUE

Daughter of Former President and Dean of Bryn Mawr College to Take Active Part in Gathering of Women's Organizations Next Sunday

Miss Helen P. Taft, daughter of the former President and dean of Bryn Mawr College, will preside next Sunday afternoon over the meeting to be held in the ballroom of the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel at 3:30 o'clock in the proposed league of nations.

Various women's organizations, representing the colleges, the professions and the trades, will stand as sponsors for the gathering, the purpose of which is especially to enlist the influence of the women of Philadelphia in behalf of a world alliance for peace. Co-operating in the arrangements are the Philadelphia branch of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae, the Women's Trade Union League and the Pennsylvania League of Women Workers' clubs.

Miss Julia Lathrop, chief of the children's bureau, and Judge George Anderson of the United States Circuit Court in Boston, have already been secured as speakers, and other speakers will be announced later. Miss Lathrop has just returned from Paris and is in a position to give first-hand information of the various currents of thought about the League of Nations, not known to Philadelphia, has been speaking for the league throughout New England. He is one of the board of trustees of the World Peace Foundation, of which William H. P. Fawcett, president of Brown University, is president, and was a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission in 1917 and 1918.

Associated with Miss Elizabeth Kirkbride, who as chairman of the local alumnae council of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae, is acting as chairwoman of the committee in charge of arrangements, are the following: Miss Vida Hunt Francis and Mrs. David Rice.

$50,000 FOR THREE VASES

University Museum Acquires Specimens of Chun Pottery

Three vases of the extremely rare and far-famed Chun pottery have been purchased by the University Museum at a cost of $50,000.

According to Dr. G. B. Gordon, director of the University Museum, the thick, heavy glass and the rich coloring with which the vases are decorated are among the most distinguishing characteristics of the Chun ware, which was at one time the most celebrated ware mentioned in the annals of the old Chinese dynasties.

The Shame of the Nation

"I WILL die soon; will you accept my body for dissecting in exchange for some immediate aid?" So wrote a starving preacher to a medical school. For more than fifty years he had labored day and night to make men better citizens; and this was his reward from you, you who are supposed to have the ideals that saved the world at war.

Do you think this exaggeration? It is but a fraction of the truth. There are thousands of preachers in this, your country, too old and ill to work, who are penniless.

Christianity founded this country; its preachers pioneered the plains; it is the basis of this greatest republic; it is your insurance of progressive peace.

The churches are an economic investment because: They keep men fit for their work; educate them to the responsibilities of their work; give them a love of law and order.

You pension the faithful worker; will you pension the preacher who has made the worker faithful?

Invest in the church and be paid in industrial progress. It's not your tears but your dues that are needed—and needed now.

This is no time for doubt and delay. Get the facts from the business men who are backing this great movement. Write today to
